Connect2 Communications Recognized as a Best Place to Work in the Triangle

Honor caps off award winning month for dynamic high-tech PR agency

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, NC, October 6, 2009— Connect2 Communications, a rapidly growing targeted technology public relations and marketing firm, has been named one of the Best Places to Work in the Triangle by Triangle Business Journal. This award coincides with another prestigious announcement that the firm's president, Richard Williams, has been honored as a 2009 Mover & Shaker by Business Leader magazine.

"It's a very exciting time at Connect2 Communications," said agency president, Richard Williams. "Being honored with these two awards reflects the inclusiveness of our workplace and acknowledges our effort to not only make Connect2 a great place to work, but a place where individuals can succeed to new heights."

Connect2 Communications was listed by the Triangle Business Journal as one of the best small companies (50 employees or less) to work for in the Triangle. The annual Best Places to Work competition strives to find the top companies to work for in the Triangle, based on the results of an extensive survey that ranks companies based on their employee/manager relations, trust in management, internal policies and several other factors.

Williams was honored at the sixth annual Movers & Shakers award ceremony and featured in the September issue of Business Leader magazine. Williams was chosen from over 300 entries to be recognized as one of the up-and-coming business leaders in the Triangle community.
